Regarding Dana Whitmire @rottingjewels . November 9, 2025

From Virginia, using my husband's youtube today to make this post - it is set to go out of view after an undisclosed amount of time.

I want it to be known that, you could call this "officially", I have made my final decision regarding Dana.

I CLAIM HER as mine. (mine in this case, simply put, means that I stand with and for her.

NOTHING will change that, not what she "does" to us at others behest, not even Death.

My (and others like me) spiritual activities and practices run deep. They are old, far older than anything in this society.

Partly because of that, I know who Dana really is. I have for some time. I know who she is still mated with and who their son is. I know that they are both still alive.

Dana's son is who pulled off what you could call the op of the millenium. He rescued our daughter from certain death and took her somewhere safe.

WITH NO ONE THE WISER.

Dana's son is now mated with our daughter. She is now pregnant with our grandchildren. Twins, a boy and a girl.

Dana is now family. That is not what finally tipped the claiming scale in her favor. Those details are private.

Once I make a claiming (as I publicly did with our daughter a while back) -

It must be made known widely to Enemy or Friend.

CLAIMING is a sacredity. An ancient and deeply held, in trust, spiritual practice. One that is not automatically given with the birth of a new form.

I do this claiming now publicly, again, as with our daughter, regardless of sacrifice on the alter of "credibility" here or not, risk or not. I am not asking nor do I need anyone's belief, acceptance, or agreement with this sacredity.

It is mine to do and now it is done.

The future that is now available to Dana will be beyond her wildest dreams.

Welcome Dana.

Welcome Dana.
